King's Bay visit garners port commission 'yea' to Atlas, supervisors are impressed

by JAKE JACOB
Supervisor Sam Perniciaro, Beat 4, Hancock County, told the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission on Thursday that he was "very impressed" with the manner in which Atlas Powder handled their explosive content cargos at Kings Bay, Georgia. Perniciaro, was accompanied this week in a tour of company facilities there by Supervisors James Travirca, Beat 5, and Bert Courrege, Beat 1; Port

Commissioner, Dave McDonald, and Port Director Wilson W. Weber. Atlas, a subsidiary of the Tyler Corp. of Dallas, Texas, has been in negotiation with the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission and the supervisors for the last six months concerning their locating a materials handling center at Port Bienville. At Thursday's session, a meeting at which the company had been informed they would receive the final port group recommendation, McDonald said he was "wholeheartedly in favor" of the company's impending county settlement. Port Commissioner John Borge forced a 6-1 split vote when he came out against the settlement, stating that in his opinion the company would be of detriment to the county. The vote followed a compromise settlement between all parties concerning actual land involvement, with the proposed "bunker area" being relocated within the park to a site some 2000 feet (nearly half a mile) from the actual harbor facility.

Fishermen to net boat rehab funds through Lott bill

Legislation authored by Congressman Trent Lott, to decrease the initial downpayment required on loans to build or recondition fishing vessels, a measure which overwhelmingly passed the House of Representatives, may result in complete rehabilitation of the Mississippi Gulf Coast fishing fleet.

The legislation would permit the federal government to guarantee obligations for financing fishing vessels up to 87 and one-half percent of the actual construction or reconditioning cost. The bill was approved on a 309-68 vote on Jan. 23 and forwarded to the Senate.

Previously, Lott said, the government could guarantee a maximum of 75 percent on loans through the National Marine Fisheries Service. "This legislation has the effect of reducing the amount of money that Mississippi fishermen must put up as an initial investment to build or renovate their vessels."

Lott said enactment of the legislation would result in virtually no additional cost to the government. The cost of administering the program is paid by user fees, rather than appropriation. Lott said only two loan defaults have been recorded in the past 10 years on fishing vessels with financing guaranteed by the fund.

Lott said the bill should prove especially beneficial to fishermen with smaller operations, slashing by one-half the amount of money they must put up to receive the loan. "This bill could give those people who now work as engineers, deckhands or fishermen the chance to become owner-operators with a real interest in the state of the in-

Bay mayor, banker to aid allocation $9.5 million fund

Mayor Larry Bennett and Robert Hamilton, vice president, Hancock Bank, both of Bay St. Louis, have been appointed as Hancock County's representatives to the Coastal Energy Impact Program Allocation Committee (CEIPAC).

The two will be joined in committee by a like number from Harrison and Jackson counties to rule on fund allocation by priority of application.

The funds, said to be in the neighborhood of $9.5 million, are to be utilized by the coast counties for public works and long range planning projects.

Bay council last week authorized their engineer, Burk and Associates, to work up a proposal outlining the cost of their service for preparation of plans ($9.5 MILLION - PAGE 4)

Date set for Corps to hear DuDe RR bridge permits

by EDGAR PEREZ
The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has scheduled public hearings at 7 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 16, at the Westside Community Center in Gulfport on Dupont railroad construction permit applications.

Popularly known as the DuDe Railroad, the proposed 16-mile spur will serve as the raw materials supply line between Dupont's titanium dioxide pigment plant at Delisle and the main line of the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad in Gulfport.

"This spur will provide a corridor for transporting titanium dioxide bearing ores, petroleum coke, chlorine and other chemicals...to the Dupont plant for processing into pigment," the Corps reported.

Specifically, Dupont has requested permission from the Corps to "place fill in wetlands in conjunction with the construction of a new railroad bridge and trestle over Wolf Creek, and to place culverts and construct embankments for railroad crossings at Delisle Bayou and Turkey Creek."

Knifing victim improves, assailant lodged in jail

by EDGAR PEREZ
A Bay St. Louis man has been released from the intensive care unit of Gulf Coast Community Hospital in Biloxi where he is convalescing from stab wounds suffered in an altercation Tuesday night at a US-90 lounge.

John Perniciaro Jr. said from his hospital bed Friday he feels he is on the road to recovery following exploratory surgery in connection with a stab wound of the abdomen.

Perniciaro also received a cut over his left eye in the incident which occurred about 8 p.m. Jan. 24 at the Office Lounge in Bay St. Louis, according to Bay Police Chief Douglas Williams.

Charged with assault and battery with a deadly weapon in the case is Hugh David Hill, 25, of Silver Creek Acres, Kiln, Williams reported.

Officers said Hill fled the scene of the incident, but was arrested about an hour later at a US-90 restaurant by Assistant Chief Eugene Hughes of the Waveland police department.

Although the Bay St. Louis police department set a $5,000 bond for Hill, Hancock County Sheriff Sylvan Ladner, administrator of the county jail where Hill is being held, said the Kiln man would not be released on bond until doctors reported the alleged victim to be in a stable condition.

Williams said he was assisted in the investigation by Assistant Chief Franklin Hess and Officers Alton Benoit and Larry Ladner.

Juveniles arrested
The Waveland police department has charged three juveniles ranging in age from nine to 14 years in connection with an early morning break-in at Stuckey's on US-90 Wednesday.

Officers said some $500 in fireworks and assorted merchandise was taken from the store between 5 and 5:30 a.m. Approximately 90 percent of the stolen goods were recovered and the youths were in custody by 4 p.m. the same day, according to Inspector

Restitution is ordered paid by Youth Court

The Hancock County Youth Court handed thirty cases during its January term. In addition, ten special or emergency hearings were conducted during the month.

Breaking and entering was the most common offense before the Court. Two Louisiana juveniles, accused of breaking into the Frost Top on Jan. 2, were adjudicated delinquent and their cases were referred to Jefferson Parish for disposition. The two were ordered to pay and paid restitution in the amount of $151.20 for damages to the building.

Three of the five juveniles involved in the breaking and entering and vandalism at Waveland Elementary School in November were placed on probation and ordered to pay their proportionate share of restitution for damages, which totaled $621.14. The other two juveniles accused were adjudicated delinquent, and a disposition in their cases will be made in February.

Currently there are thirty two juveniles on Court ordered probation in Hancock County and one on parole.

The next regular term of Youth Court will be February 22, 1978.

Smith amendment will return lieu lands back to tax roll

by ELLIS CUEVAS
State Senator Martin Smith of Poplarville, reported yesterday his amendment to the controversial 18th Section School Lands bill, seeking the necessity for counties having non-taxable lieu lands in Hancock to either dispose of those lands or subject them to taxes received the favorable endorsement of his colleagues and was approved in the bill's 37-14 passage vote.

Smith said the amendment had been requested by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors who are pressed with rising budgets, the loss of the Buffer Zone Lands, added to the burden of having 4,789 acres of out of county owned lieu lands within their borders. Supervisors recently ordered their clerk, John Rutherford, Jr., to contact all counties having lieu lands in Hancock asking them to offer such for sale. Little response was forthcoming.

The amendment would put the lieu lands on sale July 1981, according to Smith. Smith also stated that mineral rights would be maintained by the present owners and funds would go to school trust funds.

He said Hancock County supervisors are concerned over the lieu lands because no taxes are paid as they are owned by out of county school boards. In Friday's Senate action Smith also introduced two concurrent senate resolutions. One resolution dealing with water flow of Pearl River and the other authorizing the state attorney

Ole Miss archivist assembles history

They might be just dusty old books taking up space in the attic. But to Thomas Verich, archivist, University of Mississippi, those ledgers from great-granddad's 1890's lumber business could provide a missing piece in an important mosaic.

The mosaic is Mississippi's historical and cultural heritage. Dr. Verich is helping put it together, his being in charge of collecting, cataloging, preserving and promoting the use of a large volume of letters, manuscripts, books, photographs, and other printed and recorded material.

As historian-librarian he feels a double concern that society needs to maintain a sense of its past.

"We all have an unconscious sort of awareness of a place in time," he says. "It is, it seems to me, an elemental desire of humanity to understand one's place in history."

Archival collections help develop such an understanding, Dr. Verich believes. "The original article always has a special aura about it. Holding an early edition of Newton's 'Principia' or looking at a Confederate soldier's tattered letter conveys tremendous psychological impact. It evokes a sense of immortality."

He views the Ole Miss Department of Archives and Special Collections, however, as more than a quiet repository of books and papers.

"Basically, the department exists as a research tool. It is a place where original materials are collected and made available to scholars, students, and the interested public."

"IS SOMEBODY TRYING TO GET OUT?"—Frequenters of the Hancock County Courthouse Square may have asked this question Friday when they heard a jackhammer pounding inside the county jail. But it was only, from left, Lee Ferrell of Lee's Plumbing and Heating in Waveland, and Kenny Minton and Alfred Sells of the Bay St. Louis Utilities Department trying to get at plumbing which has been leaking heavily under the thick concrete flooring of the old jail. Lockup officer J. W. Paige kept a close eye on the entire operation, knowing it's every convict's dream to have a jackhammer in the jail house. (Staff photo: Edgar Perez)

New directory to list Hancock firms

Minority business firms in Hancock County have been informed of the Defense Logistics Agency intent of publishing a directory of minority business concerns in an effort to aid them in procurement of government contracts and sub-contracts.

The directory will be sent to contractors holding or bidding on defense contracts. It will also be distributed to all Department of Defense buying offices.

A letter from the Defense Logistics Agency is now being mailed to Minority Business Enterprises throughout the United States requesting information from them to be included in the directory.

The directory will enable Department of Defense buying activities and Defense contractors to be aware of product lines and capabilities on the listed minority firms to provide goods and services to the Armed Forces.

It is expected that the first directory will be published in April. It will be periodically updated. The directory will assist the Armed Forces and their contractors, to accomplish President Carter's goal of increasing government purchases from minority business firms.

Minority businesses that do not receive a letter can write to the Defense Logistics Agency - DCAS - Cameron Station, Alexandria, Virginia 22314, and ask for a minority business questionnaire.

GETTING POINT ACROSS - Jay Turley and wife gave a sample demonstration of High Intensity Tutoring Reading (HIT) Wednesday to English and reading students at Bay Junior High. The class teacher is Mrs. Sue Sonier and teachers aide, Mrs. Dawn Thomas. (Staff photo - Ellis Cuevas)

Bay Junior High starts new reading program

by ELLIS CUEVAS

A new reading program has been installed at the Bay Junior High School. Called the High Intensity Tutoring Program (HIT), it had its beginning in the Texas Independent School District, Dallas. From 1971 through May of 1977 more than 85,000 students had been helped by the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Jan Turley, representatives of Instructional Associates of Plano, Texas, gave students and teachers a demonstration Wednesday, at BJHS.

Major features of the HIT are, low cost, high academic gains, direct student involvement, individualization of instruction, diagnostic-prescriptive approach, and reduced discipline problems, according to Turley.

Some of the instructional techniques used in HIT are, one-to-one, word-sight association, phonics skills, sound identification, blending, decoding, word attack, phonic rules, linguistic, including drill with real and nonsense words, positive language experiences, building motivation with assured success.

Results of HIT show students have consistently averaged achieving in excess of one month's gain for one month's instruction. These are students who were pretested and scored two or more years below grade level. Students without learning disabilities will gain substantially faster.

The teaching strategy emphasizes:

Individual pacing - letting each student progress at his own pace.

Active learning - letting each student learn by reading and reacting to what he reads.

Positive reinforcement - emphasizing the student's success rather than possible mistakes.

High intensity teaching - allowing each student to master a given step before going to the next.

Multi-sensory teaching - including sufficient practice in each lesson for the three major sensory modalities.

The HIT program is being used because research shows that from 20 to 30 per cent of all students cannot learn effectively in a group situation. The one-to-one tutor-tutee team, is like "the little old red schoolhouse" where older students helped the younger students.

All students at Bay Junior High will become involved with HIT according to school administrators.

Washington is destination of 13 coast high students

Thirteen outstanding South Mississippi high school students have been selected to participate in an intensive one-week study program in Washington, D.C., focusing on the federal government, Congressman Trent Lott said today.

Lott said the students, who will represent seven high schools, will join other students from across the nation and overseas in the 1978 Presidential Classroom for Young Americans. "The goal of the program is to foster leadership potential and civic responsibility among student leaders by exposing them to the dynamics of our democratic system at its heart here in Washington," Lott said.

South Mississippi students selected to attend are: Robin Lee, Sarah Beth Stein, Sherry Winterstein and Helen Ball, Dilberville; Steven J. Allen and Kelly Ann Caldarelli, Long Beach; Gregory B. Holfield, Northeast Jones; Lisa L. Saper, Pass Christian; Martha A. Cuellar and Jewell Renee Lee, Petal; William E.

Kergosien, St. Stanislaus High School; Rebecca J. Banks and Thomas J. Wiltz, III, Vancleave.

"These students will study how decisions are made, then have a chance to quiz officials on the mechanics of government's operation," Lott said. THE OLE
PASTOR
SAYS...

ASSAD AS IT IS, we have to face up to the melancholy fact that we live in a world of unrest. Real peace is talked about and longed for, but little realized. Millions have real difficulty feeling any measurable sense of inner peace. Peace within ourselves involves peace with God and our neighbor. This truth stands out - we cannot build a fence around a little world of our own creation and thereby achieve the real joy of peace our hearts long for. Such isolation only adds to the maze of unrest within us.

God made us creatures who need fellowship and companionship. We need one another. This should stimulate a desire within us to break out of our self-imposed prison born of human selfishness, and live in such a way as to be a blessing to others - whoever they are. We never bless others without receiving a greater blessing ourselves. After all, Christ gave His life a ransom for others.

A paramount necessity in achieving inner peace is to make sure the line between ourselves and our fellowman is cleared of all human wrongs and offenses which prevent our having real fellowship with God.

"Therefore if thou bring thy gift to the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against thee; leave there thy gift before the altar and go thy way; first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift" (Matt. 5:14-15).

When you are disposed to "talk about" your neighbor, talk to God about him. "Paul said, 'For all the law is fulfilled in one word, even this; Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another'"
(Gal. 5:14-15).

Reconciliation always lends a lift to living. Facing up to wrongs and offenses whether they involve God, our neighbor, or, as in most cases, both, brings comfort to our hearts and peace to our minds. More than that, it opens many adventurous highways that lead us into the approving presence and companionship of our good, loving, and benevolent Heavenly Father.

Often it is, in our human weaknesses, it seems the price we pay for reconciliation is terrible - swallowing our pride, humbling ourselves - but the prize we gain is the sweet peace of God which passes all understanding. There is nothing quite so wonderful as the sweet peace of God in our lives. It is a peace the world cannot give, neither can it take away (John 14:27).

"Peace, peace; sweet peace! Wonderful gift from above! Oh, wonderful, wonderful, peace! Sweet peace, the gift of God's love!"
- L.S. Walker.

Hawks out-distance D'Iberville under bright Superdome lights

by SHARON WALLS
"While you are playing, think basketball. Let's let D'Iberville look at the bright lights of the Superdome. You can look when the game is over," Coach Roland Ladner of Hancock North Central urged his team from the front of a bus carrying the Hawks to New Orleans.

The Hawks handily defeated the D'Iberville Warriors, 81-71, in a prelude to the Jazz-Celtic game Tuesday night in the Superdome.

"You boys don't have to prove anything," Ladner continued his pre-game exhortation, "The people out there know you play good basketball. Relax, be confident, and concentrate on the game. I believe we can win this one."

Outside the bus windows, rain was pouring down. The highway was dangerously slick and one collision had already snarled traffic on I-10.

A late start, confusion over filming the evening's game and a little trouble with a celluloid switch put the Hawks at the doors of the Superdome only 45 minutes before game time. The team was unable to work in the scheduled half-hour pre-game practice.

The Hawks came to the court in the center of the Superdome more relaxed than might have been expected from a high school team given the chance to perform in the nation's largest indoor arena, but Hancock was making its second appearance in the Dome in two years. This was an advantage over dome-struck D'Iberville.

Both teams needed the first quarter to settle down, but Hancock quickly moved out front to dominate the second period racking up 27 points. Dean Shaw netted two consecutive baskets to give the Hawks a 12 point advantage, 32-20, with three minutes in the half. Barry Arcement contributed two points on a jump shot from under the basket. Arcement scored three more goals in the half to run up the score, 42-23, at the break.

D'Iberville shook the lights from their eyes and tallied 21 points in the third quarter, led by 6'9" Danny Dunlap. Dunlap blocked several Hawk shots, but Hancock managed to net 22 points to stay ahead, 64-44.

With only three minutes left in the game, D'Iberville moved within eight points of Hancock, 73-65, on a basket by Dunlap. Arcement, one of the Hawks' guards and a leading scorer, fouled out of the game earlier in the fourth period leaving a difficult defensive gap to fill. The tall center for D'Iberville drew fouls of his own, sending Alan Dedeaux to the line for two out of two with two minutes before the final buzzer.

David Ladner moved in with a field goal, followed by Dedeaux with a shot from the corner to bring the tally to 79-69. Dunlap drew his fourth foul and sent sophomore Moses Hill to the foul line for the last two Hawk points.

Then it was Dunlap's turn for an unsuccessful free shot on a foul by Michael Ladner, but Mark Shuttlesworth finished the game for D'Iberville with his only basket of the evening.

Dedeaux was high scorer for the Hawks, sinking eight field goals and two free shots for 18 points. Shaw contributed 17, and Arcement, despite sitting out the fourth quarter, netted 14. High jumper David Ladner scored 11.

Arcement is credited with seven assists and three steals, while Dedeaux had six assists. Mark Ladner grabbed 10 rebounds, followed by David Ladner who pulled in nine.

Dunlap netted a game-high 25 points and got 16 rebounds for D'Iberville. Reggie Collier backed him up with seven baskets and four free shots.

Following the game against D'Iberville, the teams were treated to a tight 96-91 Jazz win of the visiting Boston Celtics. The victory was the sixth straight for the unpredictable Jazz, giving them a 22-24 record.

"Pistol" Pete Maravich, the talk of New Orleans, put on a good performance, sinking 31 points, backed up by Truck Robinson with 22. Jo Jo White was high man for the Celtics with 21.

Tigers crush St. John, tangle with Warriors

The Bay High Tigers held St. John to eight points in the first quarter while racking up 20 points of their own, then went on to crush St. John 82-62.

See-saw score tips for Pass in PRC action

The lead see-sawed back and forth between Pass Christian and St. Stanislaus through the first three quarters, until the Pirates grabbed five quick baskets in the final set to clinch the win, 81-68, Thursday night in D'Iberville Gym.

The Rock-a-chaws led 17-14 at the end of the first period, but the Pass-Pirates exploded with 24 points in the second to move out front, 38-32.

Stubborn St. Stanislaus held the Pirates to 11 points in the third to move within a basket of the point position, 49-47.

"It was a close game going into the fourth quarter," commented Bob Cucaro, of the Rock-a-chaws. "We just blew it against their press."

The Rocks allowed four straight turn-overs in the beginning of the fourth. Pass took advantage of the mistakes to run up a 40-point lead.

"Once they got the clear lead, Pass got into their running game, and we could never catch up," said Cucaro.

Cullen Swanier and John Whitman led the game in scoring with 24 points each, followed by Virgil Swanier with 20 points for the Pass Pirates.

Kerry Court led the Rock offense with 19 points, supported by Charles Vincent's 10-15.

St. Stanislaus is rated fifth in the Pascagoula River Conference with a record of 10-15.

in first round action Thursday night in the Pascagoula River Conference Championship.

St. John came back from the first period rout to sink 16 points in both the second and third quarters, and 22 in the final set, but Bay High took a 13 point lead in the first half and held on for the victory.

The Tigers rolled up 21 points in the third quarter and 24 in the fourth on the strength of Mike Thompson's shooting. Thompson netted a phenomenal 39 points in the confrontation. Tony Dailey contributed 20 points in the victory.

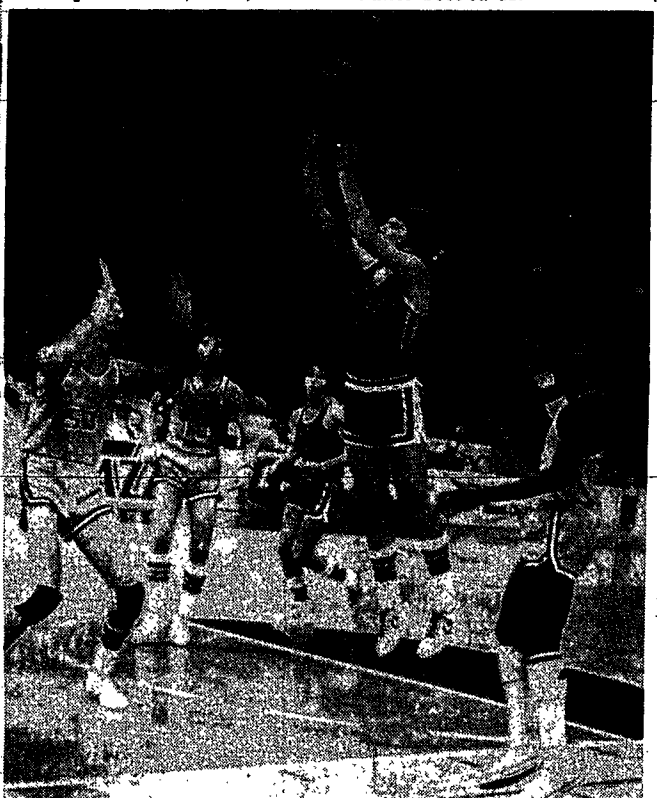

Bay High was ranked third in the conference going into the Championship, losing only to D'Iberville and Vancleave in PRC action. The Tigers get another shot at top-seated D'Iberville in the semi-finals Friday night.

"It wouldn't surprise me if we beat them," commented Tiger coach Mike Necaise. "They are a good team, and they have some big boys, including 6'9" Danny Dunlap. We have one player who is 6'4", and the rest of our team is under six feet. But we are going out to play our best, and I believe we have a chance of winning."

DELTA STATE DROPS USM

The Lady Statesmen, defending national champion, crushed the Lady Eagles, 83-66, Wednesday on USM's home territory. Annine Witherington racked up 22 points for Delta State, while Cornelia Ward added 14 and Romano Von Boeckman, 12. Nancy Faulk and Diana Lyons each netted 18 points for the Lady Eagles. USM stands 10-5.

The annual toll of heart and blood vessel diseases surpasses that of battle deaths of the nation's armed services since 1776.

Lady Pirates set sail for PRC champ berth

The Lady Pirates of Pass Christian won a first round contest Wednesday against St. Martin, 54-22, in the Pascagoula River Basketball Conference Championship. Underway at D'Iberville High School.

Theresa Cannon, a member of the Lady Pirates' starting line and a consistently high scorer, sprained an ankle in the confrontation.

"I am not sure if Theresa will be able to play against Bay High in the semi-finals Friday night," commented Coach Jenny Ladner. Thursday. "Her ankle is still swollen and she was unable to practice with us today. This is a bad break for us. We are down to four starters, one sub, and the rest of the bench. Bay High is no push-over in the best of situations."

The Lady Pirates grabbed a 10 point lead in the first quarter, then steadily broadened the gap to 24-10 at the half. By the end of the third, the game was put away for Pass High, 38-18, and the 16 points the Lady Pirates netted in the final period was just icing on the cake.

"We had a good night," Ladner said. "St. Martin has a young team, and they are still trying to build a strong program."

Robin Roberts was high scorer for the game with 19 points for Pass High. Polly Necaise and June Ward contributed 10 each.

The win makes the Lady Pirates 6-1 in conference action for a second place seeding in the Pascagoula River Conference, but Ladner hopes to improve that rating in further contests in the Championship.

Pass High meets Bay St. Louis in the semi-finals Friday night in D'Iberville.

The Lady Bulldogs did not fare much better in the next two periods, scoring a combined 17 points. By the end of the third quarter, Bay High had buried them 47-21.

The Vancleave girls committed foul after foul sending Bay High to the line 16 times for a total of 14 points. Charlene Haynes netted nine points from the free throw line for the Tigerettes.

It's no secret that along with the high cost of living, educational costs, especially at the college level, have seen some drastic increases in the past few years. But what may surprise many, according to Mrs. Joan Dambrino, administrative assistant, financial aids, Mississippi College, Clinton, is the number of options students in the Bay-Waveland-Hancock County area will have in getting financial assistance for the 1978-79 school year.

"Potential students and their parents are not always aware of the financial assistance available and the many different sources from which they can get this aid," said Mrs. Dambrino. "There are various grants, loans and work programs available to help any student who qualifies."

Eligibility for all financial aid programs at Mississippi College is determined through a Financial Aid Form through the College Scholarship Service (CSS) and may be obtained at the college Financial Aids Office. Through this information, the office is able to tailor a program which will best meet the financial needs of the student.

If a student meets the eligibility requirements, there are three ways he can obtain financial assistance that does not have to be repaid. The Basic Education Opportunities Grant (BEOG), the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant (SEOG) and work-study or institutional work programs fall into this category.

The BEOG, a federally funded grant, has recently been increased by Congress to allow payment on one half of the yearly costs of a student's education, up to a maximum of $1,600 annually. According to Mrs. Dambrino, the qualifications for this grant have been lowered to compensate for increased living expenses and students who may not have been able to qualify for the grant in the past may be eligible for the 1978-79 school year.

Under the SEOG, another federal grant, each institution is allotted funds to give financial aid to the most needy students as determined by the discretion of the Financial Aids Office. Under this grant a student may receive up to $1,500 for each school year.

Work-study and institutional work programs are another opportunity students have to supplement their income during the school year. Most students work between 10 and 15 hours per week and earn between $700 and $1,000 per semester. The Financial Aids Office is also contacted by employers in the greater Jackson-area and notices of job opportunities are posted on a bulletin board outside the office.

Loans are also available through the Financial Aids Office but Mrs. Dambrino reminds students that this type of financial aid must eventually be paid back.

There are two types of federal loans a student can obtain. They include the National Direct Student Loan (NDSL) and the Guaranteed Student Loan Program (GSLP).

The NDSL is a federal loan obtained by the student through the institution. The student, on the basis of need, may borrow up to $2,500 for the first two years and up to a maximum of $5,000 for the undergraduate degree.

As long as the student is at least a half time student, the government pays the interest on the loan. But when the student drops below the half time load or completes the degree, they must begin paying back the loan after 9 months at a 3 percent interest rate and a minimum of $30.00 a month. Depending upon the amount borrowed, the student can take up to 10 years to pay off the loan.

The GSLP is also backed by the federal government but arrangements must be made with the consent of the institution to borrow the money through a lending institution. The government will pay the interest on the loan for a student who maintains at least a half time load. Once a student drops below that level or completes the degree, the loan must be paid back at a seven percent interest rate.

Under this loan, a student can borrow up to $2,500 per year, up to $7,500 for the undergraduate degree, or a total of $15,000 for both graduate and undergraduate work. There are also other forms of specialized financial aid such as loans and grants for nursing students and veterans.

According to Mrs. Dambrino, now is the time for parents and students to begin applying for financial assistance for the 1978-79 school year. Applications are due in the Financial Aids Office by April 1 to be assured of financial assistance for those who qualify.

The staff of Silver Creek School would like to thank all of the clubs and organizations for the great Christmas parties that were given for the students.

They would especially like to thank Santa and all his helpers for coming all the way from the North Pole to help them celebrate. Also they thank Mrs. Jackie Noto and her two daughters, J'Don and J'Lene for helping to make the Silver Creek School's Christmas program a success.

On Friday, Jan. 13, the students of Silver Creek went on a field trip to the Gulfport Police Department.

The students have resumed going to the Waveland Library every Tuesday where they enjoy a story hour. On Thursday as we know the younger students go to Kiln Library and see films.

The students are now beginning practice for the local Special Olympics to be staged in March.

A belated happy birthday to Bobbie Comeaux from the gang.

Welcome back to Dave who was hospitalized, but is now back at Silver Creek. We missed you a bunch.

Get well wishes to Lester Comeaux who is in the hospital.

Choir practice will no longer be on Monday nights, but will now be on Saturdays.

Practice will begin immediately following the 6 p.m. mass. It will last for about 20 minutes. This way we hope to have more people show up.

Happy birthday wishes to Belinda Cameron. Belinda will be 10 years old tomorrow.

January birthdays of the students of Annunciation school were celebrated on Thursday in the school cafeteria.

Annunciation girls and boys basketball team will play against Bay Catholic Elementary on Tuesday Jan. 31. The game will begin at 6 p.m. and will be played in the Annunciation Gym. Then also on Thursday Feb. 2, the boys and girls will vs. C.B. Murphy also in the gym at 6 p.m.

The Kiln, Fenton CYO members will be having a bake sale once every month after each mass. I'll try to let you know ahead of time for each one.

Also the Kiln, Fenton CYO are planning for the first CYO convention that will be held in the latter part of February.

Congratulations to Keith and Evelyn Hoda on their first baby. It was a girl born on Wednesday, Jan. 25.

Get well wishes to Tommy Haas who is now hospitalized.

We were told that Sister Mary Ursula, a former teacher of Annunciation has returned to Kiln from Philadelphia. She will be helping with the school library. Any volunteers to go and help her during school hours in the library please call the school at 255-1669.

The sixth grade class of Annunciation celebrated Liturgy last Tuesday during which they signed their agreed commitment with God in the Old Testament, which was made by David Lacoste and his father.

We are very glad to see that Tommy Larsen has returned home from the hospital.

«MIGHTY MOUSE the bull was up to his usual nasty tricks when Joey Slade lost hat in rodeo at Hammond. Mighty Mouse stomped and snorted but Slade, in good Western fashion, added lumps to his bumps and hung tight until after buzzer sounded. Right about then, Slade and MM had parting of ways, both agreeing not to see each other again until this year. Slade tells about the incident around his Rocky Hill haunts.

PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

Did you know that your appearance speaks before you have an opportunity to utter a sound?

Someone has asked "why does one man always look well-dressed while another looks just merely 'clothed'?"

The ability to dress well is something that each person must acquire. This takes much planning and work to always be appropriately dressed.

Your plans must begin by knowing just what type of clothes are best for you.

Are you short and stout or tall and thin, or are you just a well-made average fellow? In selecting clothes, your physical build is your first clue. If you are short and stout, your best choice for a suit would be one of a solid color or pin stripes. You will want to stay away from checks and mix-matched coats and trousers.

Always notice the lines (vertical or horizontal) of the garment. Slenderizing lines go up and down, which add height and slimmness to your physique. Horizontal lines make a figure look shorter and broader. If you are tall and thin you may use mix-matched or checked coats and trousers to an advantage. You may also wear lighter colors in a basic suit. An average height and size person may be able to wear clothes from either extreme.

When selecting a suit or clothing, always notice the lines (vertical or horizontal). These lines will show up in three major ways as: stripes and plaids or fabric design; garment's cut and style; and color of garment. Some colors are also more becoming to you than others. Your becoming colors will emphasize your hair, eyes and skin coloring.

Being well dressed for the occasion is important to every individual.

To a certain extent your clothes and how you wear them is a very important expression of your self image. Is your self image now what you want people to see.

Being well groomed from head to toe is very important for success in life. First impressions, good or bad, seem to have a way of hanging around. Do you make the kind of impressions you want? Do you turn others on or off because of your grooming? You can find your answer by rating your wardrobe and its care.

To be well dressed means that you have the perfect appearance without attracting anyone's attention. To be appropriately dressed for each occasion is a way of expressing yourself. How do you rate? Do you like what you're saying about yourself in dress?

POLLUTION CONTROL COMPLIANCE

The passing of time does wondrous things.

Would you believe that in a mere five years any outdoorsman in any state of the United States will discover that every stream he runs across has been returned to its pristine condition as far as pollution is concerned and is again swimmable and fishable?

Or that two years later, in 1985, by law every stream, wherever attainable, in this reforming nation will be purer than pristine so that any citizen may stoop to the knee, ladle up a cooling drink of stream water in his hands and drink it with the assurance it is officially pollution free? If your hands were clean everything is A-OK?

No pipedream this, but a declaration of intentions of the United States Congress as they passed and subsequently have amended the Clean Water Act of 1972. Today its implementation is the law of the land and both state and federal agencies are moving toward these goals with all the authority of the federal government backing them up.

All this is well and good for the idealists who own no land or commercial pursuits on the land who like the magic wand approach to solving problems. It is not quite so good for the farmers and the foresters and the industrialists and the developers who must feed, clothe, house, and provide the other amenities of modern life. They are the ones who must comply.

Of course just about everybody is in agreement that our streams are oftentimes sorely abused by people in nearly all walks of life, but the government has bitten off a big bite and the chewing already is underway. Let's look at it.

Mississippi agriculture is primarily affected by Section 208 of the Act dealing with agriculture's responsibilities in the clean-up operation. Federal authority starts with the Environmental Protection Agency while state authority begins with the Mississippi Air and Water Pollution Control Commission which already is working with a number of state agencies. First, there is the Mississippi Soil and Water Conservation Commission with overall responsibility for implementing the law in the state, and directly responsible for agricultural lands, and other agencies such as the Mississippi Forestry Commission for both private and commercial forestry operations, and the Mississippi Highway Commission for roadway erosion problems.

Already these groups are developing plans for better practices which soon are to be announced for curbing stream pollution. Five years of work already have gone into cleaning up city sewage, industrial wastes and other non-agricultural pollution sources. Now it is agriculture's turn to do its thing and state agencies are asking farmers to get ahead of the hounds by adopting the best management practices on their lands. Main agricultural pollutants are soil sediment, chemicals, even manure, that enters streams as drainage following rains.

Fortunately Mississippi farmers are not affected by what is known as "point source" pollution, or pipelined discharges into streams such as you might find from commercial livestock feedlots with over 1,000 animals or irrigation return flows. But Mississippi farmers are strongly beset by "non-point source" pollution which is the natural drainage from their farms containing impure water.

For farmers to comply with upcoming better management practices they will in some cases have to change their land use practices if they do not measure up to quality standards. An example may be to plant trees on hilly land, terrace erosion prone slopes, or plant grassy pastures in certain areas to filter out sedimentation before it leaves the farm.

All farmers would do well to begin planning the next several weeks for the announcements and meetings concerning better farmland practices that will be required in meeting the Clean Water Act's provisions.

It's better to get in step with the Act at the outset than wait for it to cut its teeth of enforcement.

WEEKLY BROILERS

January 25, 1978

Hatcheries in the State set 5,858,000 eggs for broiler chicks during the week ending January 21, 1978, 2 percent below the previous week but 10 percent above the 5,321,000 set the corresponding week a year ago.

There were 5,393,000 broiler chicks placed on Mississippi farms during the week ending January 21, 1978, 2 percent above the previous week and 6 percent above the 5,068,000 placed the corresponding week a year ago.

Cumulative placements for 1978 are 15,933,000 broiler chicks - 5 percent above a year earlier.

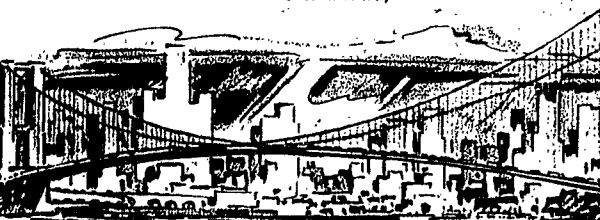

EGG-TYPE

Hatcheries in the State set 390,000 eggs for egg-type chicks during the week ending Jan. 21, 1978, 25 percent above the previous week and 24 percent above the 314,000 set during the comparable week a year ago. Hatch of egg-type chicks was 161,000 - 26 percent below the previous week and 45 percent below the 291,000 hatched during the comparable week a year ago.

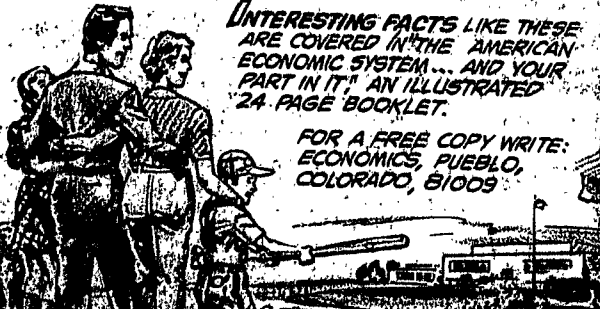

In the five states that accounted for about 25 percent of the hatch of all egg-type chicks in the U.S. in 1976, settings during the week ending January 21, 1978 were down 22 percent and hatchings were down 14 percent from a year ago.

THINGS YOU NEVER ORDERED

If you're like most people, every year you get a package or two you did not order - Christmas cards, books and a bill will follow.

According to law, merchandise you receive without ordering is yours to keep free and clear, without payment. This should make the receiver feel better about not paying for the unwanted items and should cut down considerably on the amount of unordered merchandise mailed to all of us.

FILE GUARANTEES AND AVOID PROBLEMS

Take time to file guarantees and warranties that come with holiday presents. Avoid time, money and headaches in the future if you need to file a complaint. Check to see if you must register your gift with the manufacturer. If so, return the registration card promptly; keep the stub for reference. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for use and care; then, if problems develop, demand adjustment.

SAVE ON YOUR ELECTRIC BILL

Proper use of electric kitchen appliances can make a big difference in your electric bill. These suggestions may help reduce your electric bill.

Defrost your freezer often. If your freezer isn't frostless, make sure you defrost it before ice gets one-fourth inch thick. Additional ice cuts down on the cool power of the coils.

Leave the refrigerator door shut. Don't make repeated trips to remove items one-by-one when planning your meals. Also, make sure door gaskets have good seal. They become brittle and lose effectiveness with age.

Never set refrigerator temperature controls lower than required to maintain proper temperature. If you are going away for a few days, raise the temperature setting slightly. The closed door will keep things cold.

Keep your freezer full. The temperature can be maintained much better by the food in your freezer than it can by air which spills out each time you open the door. Don't buy a freezer too big for your needs.

Use your dishwasher only when you have a full load. Meanwhile, use it to store soiled dishes.

Plan oven meals. A complete meal can be cooked in the oven as economically as one food item. Get foods into the oven as soon as it's preheated or don't preheat at all. Avoid using the oven for small jobs like making toast.

Avoid opening the oven door unnecessarily. Make sure the door seal is tight, and not leaking heated air. Turn the oven off as soon as you are through using it.

Conduct safety training for workers in each job. Then manage that program by keeping machinery and equipment in safe operating condition. Check workers throughout the year for safe work practices, suggests Reed.

Safety programs have proven to reduce the physical and financial risks of accidents, concludes the

Planned safety programs minimize farm accidents

In 1977, 76 deaths occurred on Mississippi farms, the majority work related. Ninety percent of these involved members of farm families.

"With this number of deaths, Mississippi's share of national accidents estimates about 4,000 farm accidents," reports Dannie Reed, agricultural safety specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "At least half of these estimated accidents were serious or required medical attention, and 120 were disabling."

"Because these accidents cause pain, suffering and loss, farmers should try to prevent them by planned safety programs such as those conducted by commercial businesses and in schools," concludes Reed.

Reed says average farm accident is estimated at $400 in medical bills, lost work time and property damage. "Safety programs have proven to reduce the physical and financial risks of accidents," concludes the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

Chimney creosote poses fire hazard

Creosote deposits, a result of incomplete wood combustion, are potential fire hazards in many Mississippi homes.

"When the stovepipe or chimney flue temperature drops below 250 degrees, creosote—a complex mixture of compounds—condenses on the surface," explains Dan Reed, agricultural safety specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service.

"At low temperatures, the creosote deposit is quite fluid," continued Reed. "As these deposits are warmed, they coagulate, forming a sticky tar-like substance that will ignite as the internal temperature increases. These deposits can possibly cause a chimney fire, increasing the danger of a house fire," he added. The size of creosote deposits varies according to the density of the smoke produced, the temperature of the surface, and the type and dryness of burned wood. Dense smoke from a smoldering fire carries the most unburned creosote.

"Unfortunately, air circulating in the stove causes more complete combustion and more heat escaping up the chimney," explained Reed. "Although the extra heat in the chimney lessens creosote buildup, it also reduces the efficiency of the heating system."
